

Building a Positive Culture: The Alignment of Personal and Organizational Values

AAMC Academic Medical Group
Leadership Roundtable
September 9, 2022

Thomas L. Schwenk, M.D.
Professor Emeritus, University of Michigan
Dean Emeritus, University of Nevada, Reno

University of Nevada, Reno
School of Medicine

Objectives

- Provide background information on healthcare workforce well-being and mental health
- Describe the nature of current leadership challenges for healthcare leaders
- Share my experiences in a resource-poor academic institution under threat
- Explore values-driven leadership responses to enhance mental health and well-being
- Emphasize the power of alignment of personal and organizational values in building a positive culture

“When your values are clear to you, making decisions becomes easier.”

University of Nevada, Reno
School of Medicine

The Problem

- The Apparent Problem
  - Healthcare Workforce “Burnout” and the Demands of Medical Education and Clinical Practice
- The Real Problem
  - The Loss of Meaning in the (Un) Changing Nature of Medical Education and Clinical Practice
- The Challenge
  - The Search for Meaning through Values-Driven Health Care Leadership

University of Nevada, Reno
School of Medicine

Misery NOS Over the Physician's Lifespan

- Medical students
  - Burnout
  - Depression
  - Suicidal ideation
- Residents/Fellows
  - Burnout
  - Depression
- Physicians
  - Burnout
  - Depression
  - Suicide

25-50%

8-10%

University of Nevada, Reno
School of Medicine

Personal Testimonials

“I missed the diagnosis because I was the patient.”

“Just not tough enough.”

“All of us will have to band together if we want to change this culture. It is imperative that we do so before another precious life is lost.”

University of Nevada, Reno
School of Medicine

Possible Leadership Responses

- Yoga mats, ice cream bars, and massage chairs—
Not
- EMR modifications—Maybe
- Interventions to reduce stigma and enhance resilience in students and residents—Maybe
- Interventions to enhance professional satisfaction and meaning in work—Probably

What is needed is a different approach to leadership!

University of Nevada, Reno
School of Medicine

“Wellness-Centered Leadership: Equipping Health Care Leaders to Cultivate Physician Well-Being and Professional Fulfillment”

- Care about people always
- Cultivate individual and team relationships
- Inspire change

Shanafelt T et al. doi:10.1097/ACM.00000000000003907

University of Nevada, Reno
School of Medicine

Values-Based Leadership

- Leading People vs. Managing Things
- Values-Based Leadership → Whose Values?
- Servant Leadership → Serving Whom?

University of Nevada, Reno
School of Medicine

---

The essential characteristic of values based leadership is the belief that the welfare of people is the end of leadership and not that people are the means to the leader's goals.

Frederic Labarthe

---

University of Nevada, Reno
School of Medicine

But how do you achieve your mission if doing so conflicts with the welfare of your faculty and staff members?

Managing Motivation vs. Managing Entropy

University of Nevada, Reno
School of Medicine

Four Questions

1. What are the ways your life is being affected by your work?
2. What do value and appreciation at work feel like for you?
3. What prevents you from doing a job of which you can be proud?
4. What can be done to move forward and help you do a job of which you can be proud?

Christine Sinsky, MD, Vice President of Professional Satisfaction, AMA

University of Nevada, Reno
School of Medicine

Finding Meaning in the Healthcare Workplace

- Time, resources, staff, EMR
- Doing the right thing to support doing the right thing
- Finding what matters most to healthcare professionals
- Senior level accountability for defining and supporting meaning
- Meaning vs. joy
  - Elizabeth Goelz, MD, Hennepin Institute for Professional Worklife

University of Nevada, Reno
School of Medicine

Leading Through Values and Finding Meaning in Healthcare is Expensive

Leading Without Values and Ignoring Meaning in Healthcare is More Expensive

University of Nevada, Reno
School of Medicine

Ten Years at the University of Nevada, Reno School of Medicine

- 2011-2013 Crisis Intervention
- 2013-2017 New Solutions for Old Problems
- 2017-2020 Re-accreditation and Reimagination
- 2020- The Emergence of a New Academic Medical Center with a New Culture and Values

What do you do in a crisis when all you have is each other?

University of Nevada, Reno
School of Medicine

UNR Med Core Values

People are our strength.

We innovate and improve.

We serve with integrity.

We succeed with trust and respect.

University of Nevada, Reno
School of Medicine

"Name the five values that most characterize your leadership style."

“How strongly is your leadership style driven by your values?”

University of Nevada, Reno
School of Medicine

“What are the barriers that keep you from leading through your values?”

University of Nevada, Reno
School of Medicine

“How closely do your personal values align with your organizational values?”

University of Nevada, Reno
School of Medicine

“What are two specific actions you could take to more closely align your personal and organizational values?”

University of Nevada, Reno
School of Medicine

The Power of Self-Disclosure

- Faculty disclosure of mental illness, coping, recovery
- Reduced stigma, more favorable view of help-seeking
- “The personal narratives of physicians who describe their own mental health journeys can be an incredibly powerful tool.”
  - Kirch DG. Physician Mental Health: My Personal Journey and Professional Plea. DOI: 10.1097/ACM.0000000000003942

University of Nevada, Reno
School of Medicine

The Personal Expression of Leadership Values

Personal leadership is the process of keeping your vision and values before you and aligning your life to be congruent with them.

Stephen R. Covey

“When your values are clear to you, making decisions becomes easier.”

University of Nevada, Reno
School of Medicine